O V E R V I E W

---

A traditionally styled ultra luxurious resort hotel set on the beautiful beach in Sunny Isles, the Acqualina offers the highest level of accommodation and service and total family friendliness in a quiet location yet still just 30 minutes drive from South Beach Miami.

Everything about this resort is of the finest quality from the professional yet friendly nature of the staff through to the facilities on offer and the superb accommodation. The Acqualina team has taken families to heart here. Knowing that having children does not mean the parents should have to compromise on a luxurious environment, they have ensured that everyone is well taken care of. The one bedroom suites come complete with a Den to comfortably accommodate 2 children so you don't need to use the lounge for sleeping, through to the full kitchen and dining area, they are made for families. There is a pool where children are encouraged to enjoy, splash and play in and the children's club offers a cabana there with shade and toys to enjoy. The children's club is complimentary for children aged 5 to 12 years, and children are encouraged to get out and enjoy the beach, pool and the little football pitch set on one of the lawns. If the little ones get hungry, treat them to a trip to the gelaterie for ice cream and sweet goodies. For the adults there is still plenty to enjoy and inspire. Two further pools (one is restricted to adults only) as well as a wonderful spa with it's own plunge pool and Jacuzzis. Lounger and hammock strewn lawns spill on to the beautiful beach which offers further loungers and of course, a daily beach service. Take lunch at the poolside restaurant or in the main restaurant and in the evening, enjoy fine dining as well.

Sunny Isles is a much sleepier, residential area of North Miami Beach. Away from the frenzy and hubbub of south Beach it offers a more civilised and relaxed holiday spot yet, provides easy access should you wish to dip your toe into Miami life.

O V E R V I E W

The Singita story first began in 1993 with the opening of the Singita Ebony Lodge and then the Singita Boulders Lodge. It is from this beginning in South Africa, on the privately owned land now known as the Sabi Sands Private Game Reserve, that Singita has worked to bring a balance between luxury tourism, conservation and community.

With Kruger National Park lodges Singita Lebombo and Sweni following as well as lodges now at Zimbabwe, Pamushana Lodge and Tanzania in the Grumeti Game Reserve, Singita Sasakwa Lodge , Singita Safari Lodges offers an unparalleled safari experience.

2001 saw Singita expand into the Kruger National Park, where its two luxury lodges, Singita Lembombo and Sweni, have been erected on 33 000 acres of untouched wilderness. Both of these lodges have integrated the 'touch the earth lightly' philosophy into their daily operations. The Singita Pamushana Lodge has played a fundamental role in the sustainability of the 135 000 acre Malilangwe Wildlife reserve. Set-up in 1994, by the non-profit Malilangwe Trust, the reserve protects the incredible wilderness area next to Zimbabwe's Gonarezhou National Park. The trust is also deeply involved in community upliftment and development within the area.

Three Singita lodges and tented camps are found in Tanzania, spread out over 448 000 acres and two wildlife reserves, both bordering on the Serengeti. The larger of the two, the Grumeti reserve, was established to protect the animals passing through in the migration season, and has been run by Singita since 2006. The three lodges and two camps, situated on the 350 000 acre reserve, all practice low-impact policies and philosophies that ensure the only effect guests have on the area, are positive. The funds generated from these first class facilities are used to ensure the long-term sustainability of the reserve.

Individually designed and decorated using noble woods, stone and natural fabrics, offset by traditional whitewashed walls, the concept is to frame and lead the eye to the spectacular and ever-changing views of the sea. Each of the eleven villas is named after a precious gem, but the jewel in the crown is always the Aegean. Every villa has its own spacious, private outdoor patio with panoramic views and some have private pools. Each residence also enjoys butler service, to ensure that personal requirements are catered to with elegance and efficiency.

Santa Marina is a privileged, private enclave on one of the world's most enchanting islands. Each room, suite and villa has been designed to maximize the spectacular views of Ornos Bay, the Aegean and the Cyclades archipelago. Private balconies and planted shade areas encourage relaxation, and the use of natural materials in the interior design soothes the senses. The exclusive Lotus Spa offers even deeper relaxation, using the finest wild-harvested plant and mineral ingredients in its delectable organic spa product range. The most profound therapy of all, however, may be found in the aquamarine transparency of the waters on Santa Marina's private beach.
